BARDMOSS or MORGAN CEMETERY

Sec 29, T5S, R1W near Sunfield

Morgan, Sarah	1801-1856
Morgan, John	1830-1852
Morgan, Abram	1800-1841
Morgan, Nancy	1823-1830
Morgan, Katie	1826-1843

Bardmoss - stone there but I do not have name or dates - EES

May be other stones there. I took the above from newspaper article at time the Morgan graves were robbed. There was much concern in the late 1960's when this happened as doctors thought it possible that an epidemic might be started if any happened to have died from cholera. Descendants verified cause of death as tuberculosis. EES

The Gerstenschlager Cemetery is located about 8 miles west of Pinckneyville and a half mile south of route 154, in Section 23, Township 5-4. The cemetery is beside an all weather road and has been left undisturbed by nearby strip mining.

The Gerstenschlager Cemetery was founded by Balthasar Gerstenschlager in the early 1840's and is listed as pioneer cemetery in the Mormon records in Salt Lake City, Utah.

No official record of the cemetery can be found , all of the information about it has been handed down by relatives, and many graves are unmarked. The cemetery, was believed started when a person who was a farm hand or a drifter working on the Gerstenschlager farm died.

Betty Hasty, a descendant of the Gerstenschlager family, and her husband Melvin, maintain the cemetery now and have provided the information used here. They may be reached at 210 S. Greenwood Avenue, Du Quoin.

The reading of the cemetery began in the south end of each row moving north, with the rows being read from west to east
